THRIFT WEEK

By Dr. G. H. Felton

The Governor of Kentucky has very properly issued a proclamation for the observance of Thrift Week in accordance with a plan which was to give such observance a national character. The week is now passing, but the object of its observance will not be attained unless the practice of thrift, started now, is continued through ensuing weeks and months. What is its object and how is it to be attained?

1. The cultivation of the habit of saving a portion of one's income to provide for future needs is of real importance. This should not mean simply saving money today to spend tomorrow. It means beginning an accumulation of capital. The possession of even a little capital is always an advantage. When a man owns $100 and owes nothing he finds it easier to live and enjoy living than when he has nothing and owes $100.

2. Thrift helps the banks to be a help to the community and to business. A good bank is a valuable asset to a town and should be used by every one who earns money.

3. Just now the most important object to be attained by the practice of economy and saving is to check the serious rise of the cost of living. So far as the people, as distinguished from the government, can help in reducing prices, it is to be done in two ways, diminished expenditure and increased production. The less we buy, the smaller will be the demand for goods, and a decreased demand will bring down prices. The more we produce, the greater will be the supply of goods, and increased supply reduces prices. Accumulation of capital tends to increase production, for capital is needed for production. Every dollar that is saved and put into the bank where it becomes available for business use helps a little to bring production up to the normal amount. Thus a dollar saved both diminishes demand and increases supply, both of which will reduce prices and the cost of living. Such practice by a few individuals would be but as a drop in a bucket, but if all the people can be induced to practice it for a continued period of time, its results will be manifest and salutary. Hence the appeal to observe Thrift Week throughout the country and the importance of keeping up the fashion after the week is past. Cut out all unnecessary expenses, even if you have plenty of money, and put the money in the bank. Don't quit the practice after this week is gone but keep it up and form a habit which will be of inestimable value to you through life.

FATHER AND SON WEEK

Governor's Proclamation

No greater problem can engage our serious attention than that of conserving the boy life of our State and Nation; and there has never been a time in our history when the need of this conservation was more apparent than it is today.

Therefore, I, Edwin P. Morrow, Governor of the State of Kentucky, in the hope of arousing the men of the State to a sense of their responsibility toward their own boys and the boys of their community, and in the further hope of strengthening the ties that ought to bind fathers and sons together in good fellowship, do issue this proclamation, and I request that the week of February 16th to 22nd be set apart as Father and Son Week.

I earnestly urge that such special observances as have been planned by the churches, the Y. M. C. A., and other organizations may receive the patriotic support of all our citizens.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused the Great Seal of the State of Kentucky to be affixed in the City of Frankfort, this 22nd day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

(Signed) EDWIN P. MORROW, Governor

It will save time and trouble to all concerned if those having bills against the Red Cross send them to the Secretary the first of each month.

Ex-service men, if you have any claims for allotment, allowance, travel pay, bonus, clothing or want to apply for compensation, call at the Red Cross office.

Great Things Planned For Famous Old Transylvania

College of Bible and Hamilton College Included in Kentucky Disciples' Forward Step to Enlarge the Equipment of these Noted Institutions of Learning at Lexington

For the maintenance of its rightful place, so long occupied among America's leading educational institutions, historic Transylvania, Lexington, Ky., is to unite with the Disciples of Christ of the State, and its thousands of friends throughout the country, in a vigorous campaign for the imperative enlargement of its equipment and for an adequate compensation of its faculty. The College of the Bible, for the training of men and women for the ministry and mission field, and Hamilton College, the Junior College for Women, will share in this campaign, which is to be conducted as a part of the Interchurch World Movement.

Up to the time of the starting of the Interchurch World Movement financial drive, Transylvania and its friends will conduct a campaign of education, in order that the urgent needs of these institutions may be so well understood that everyone will be glad of the opportunity of sharing in their support.

One of the first needs of the institution is a fire-proof building to house its priceless library, worth more than a hundred thousand dollars, and which if destroyed by fire could not be replaced.

Another aim is the increase of the salaries of the professors to a living standard, making it possible to hold its present faculty, and to command the very best available material for increasing its teaching force. Another aim is the continuance of the progressive policies so long maintained by this historic college.

Many other first rank colleges throughout the country have already taken steps to avert a crisis in educational affairs. With the increased cost of everything, it is absolutely impossible for institutions of learning to exist on the basis of former support.

There is also a widespread conviction of the necessity of the maintenance of the college under distinctive Christian influences. An investigation made a few years ago revealed these significant facts:

Eight of the nine Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States were college men; seven of the eight were educated in Christian colleges. Eighteen of the twenty-six Presidents of the United States were college men; sixteen of the eighteen were from Christian colleges.

Transylvania, the Pioneer College of the West, 1785.

Eighteen of the twenty-six recognized masters in American Letters were college men; seventeen of the eighteen were from Christian colleges. Of the members of Congress in 1903 who had received a college education, and whose achievements gave them a place in "Who's Who in America," two-thirds were graduates of church colleges.

Transylvania and the College of the Bible have educated one president, two vice-presidents, the president of the Southern Confederacy; also secretaries of state, treasury, post master-general, attorney general; scores of United States senators and congressmen; a Speaker of the House; ministers to many foreign countries; governors of a large number of states; mayors of large cities; authors of national and international reputation; physicians and surgeons of world-wide fame; and thousands of ministers and missionaries of the Christian religion.

Dr. Richard H. Collins, the historian of Kentucky, characterizes its graduates "as statesmen, jurists, orators, surgeons and divines among the greatest in the world's history—men of mark in all the professions and callings of life."

In conjunction with the colored church six institutes for preachers will be annually held, bishops and other leaders of the white and colored churches being on the various programs. The white church will meet travelling and all other expenses in excess of $5 incurred by the preachers who enroll as students. It is hoped by this co-operative plan to reach a large percentage of the preaching force of the colored church.

DECLARES AMERICAN AID SHOULD CEASE THIS YEAR

Calls Situation Serious, but Asserts Europe Should Feed Victims of Her Making.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Herbert Hoover told the house ways and means committee that the United States should serve notice to the world that this government, after the immediate emergency, can no longer extend relief to Austria.

While it was the duty of the United States to come to Austria's relief this year, he said, European nations responsible for her downfall by the treaty terms should bear the burden thereafter.

"Through the political arrangements made by the treaty the agricultural area upon which Austria was dependent was taken away from her in Czechoslovakia and Serbia," Mr. Hoover said. "Austria cannot possibly obtain from her own resources more than enough food to supply her people for three months out of the year. It is difficult to know the solution. What was done was not on any American inspiration."

Representative Copley of Illinois interrupted to refer to a remark attributed to Mr. Hoover, that "Austria is doomed to a perpetual pauperhouse."

"That is my firm belief," said Mr. Hoover. "The situation today is absolutely desperate."

Mr. Hoover appeared in support of the request of Secretary of the Treasury Glass for authorization for the use of $150,000,000 by the grain corporation for the purchase of food for the people of Austria, Poland and other European countries.
